Subject: DOL Limiting Choices in IRAs

Mr. Harold Bobroff

Dear Labor:

I am a small, individual investor speaking for myself only. Though not surprised, I am appalled by and all proposals aimed at limiting what types of investments I can choose for myself, in my own accounts, with my own money, of my own volition.

If I choose to risk my capital with options (for example) in my IRA, that is no one's business but my own. It is not the Department of Labor's job, nor that of any other well-meaning government agency, to look over my shoulder when investing for my retirement, even if they believe it's for "my own good". Heaven knows I won't be getting much from the government's own retirement plan (aka Social Security).

Thank you for listening.

Sincerely,

Mr. Harold Bobroff
